Why Boarding School is Beneficial

By Brayan, Fatima, Jose lopez , Jose C

Opening Statement

The first group is wrong, boarding school is a great way to get kids to prepare for college and to grow as a person, as the youngest age and the oldest to start at 8 to 19.

Here's why boarding school is beneficial for kids and not harmful.

hy Boarding School i Bad r You

lexander Avila, jose lopez,

First off the other group is WRONGer

Opening Statement

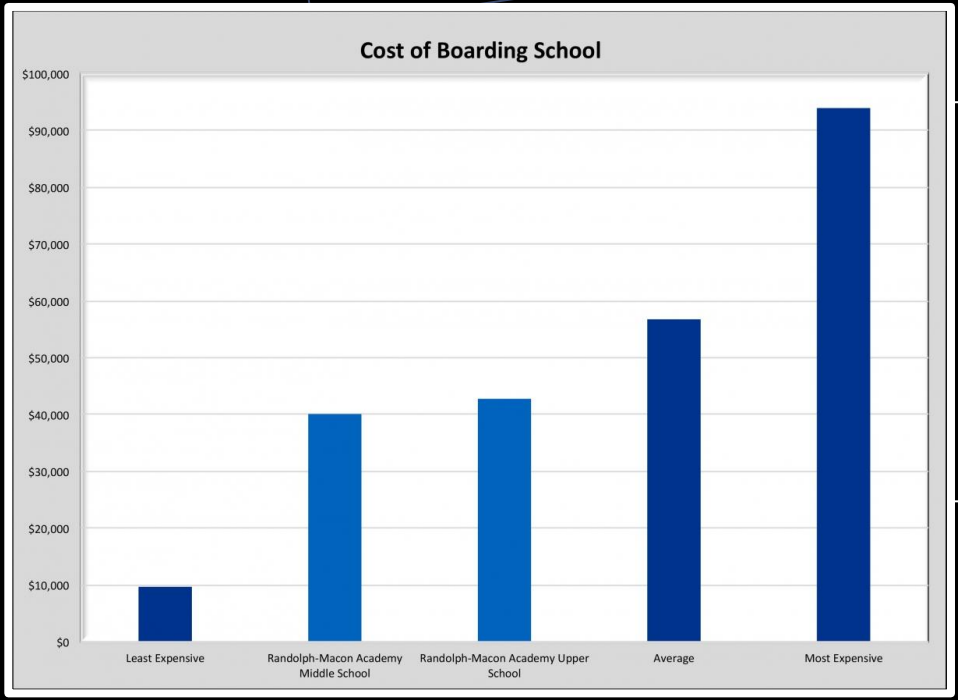
We believe that boarding school is harmful to students since boarding schools are very expensive, they separate you from your family, All boarding schools having extremely strict rules, and other things we will talk about.

Prepared For College & Growing As A Person

Studies have shown that kids from boarding schools say that they feel more prepared for college than kids from public and private schools. According to TABS (The Association of Boarding Schools),

> “The TABS study found that 78% of boarding school grads felt well prepared for the non-academic aspects of college life, such as independence, social life, and time management, compared to 36% of private day and 23% of public school students”. This study shows that not only does boarding school prepare students for college, but also helps students have a brighter future.

Boarding school can be compared to college in price If not more expensive. The cost for one whole week would be 37,590 . and a whole year would be $150,360 for a 4 year plan and the average college cost is $108,364 and most people who go to boarding school are between the age of 10-18, so most likely their parents are paying for most of it and that can also be damaging to your parents bank account as well as your own.



Peer Learning

Peer learning is a great way to develop communication and teamwork skills to build a stronger community overall. Boarding schools use peer learning to help and develop students in these ways. According to a study by TABS (The Association of Boarding Schools), “78% of boarding students reported being motivated by their peers, a percentage significantly higher than the 49% of public school students.

When you live and learn together in a community, you motivate and grow together, too”. This also means that if the percentages are higher, then that would mean boarding schools are the same and if not better than public schools in teaching students.

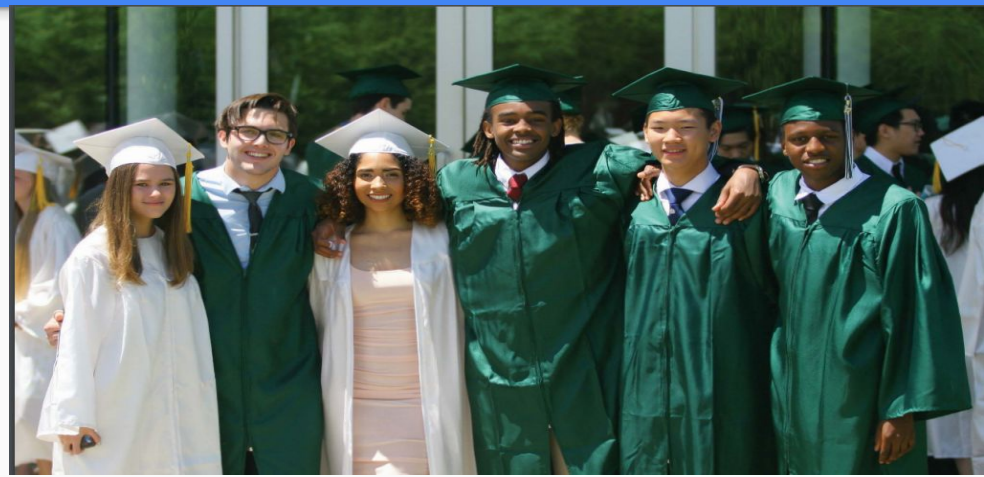
This can lead to a lot of more significant mental health issues, such as PTSD. Many students who have been in boarding school have a higher,chance of using alcohol and drugs to try and cope with the trauma that was caused by boarding school. Lot of student that have been through boarding school have a harder time getting into relationships, since they have a higher chance to get angry,violet and have higher chance of lashing out on their lover.

Many people who are grown up and been to boarding school have a higher chance of being and abusive parent.

How Happy Were Boarding School Kids With Their Experience?

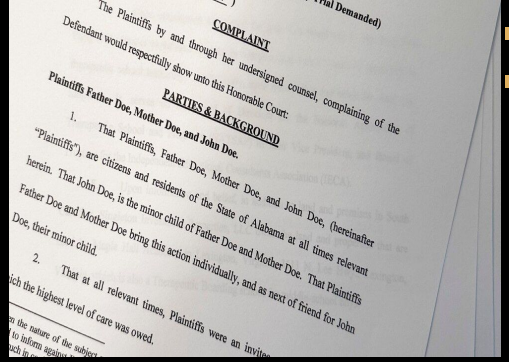
Turns out students were happy with their experience at boarding school. According to TABS," 95% of boarding school students are happy with their experience". Also, there's a common misconception that boarding schools are for troubled kids.

Even though that might've been true a long time ago, boarding schools are much different now. According to TABS, "Today, boarding schools are known for strong academics, the ability to play a different sport every season, and the opportunity to try new things that you may not normally get to try.



And because you live where you learn, you build really close friendships too". According to Time, "Between 1819 and 1969, the U.S. ran or supported 408 boarding schools". The sources that say boarding school is emotionally/physically abusive are studies from 54 years ago. Today, boarding schools are more modern.

Rebuttal:



Trial Demanded)

COMPLAINT

The Plaintiffs by and through her undersigned counsel, complaining of the Defendant would respectfully show unto this Honorable Court:

PARTIES & BACKGROUND

Plaintiffs Father Doe, Mother Doe, and John Doe.

1. That Plaintiffs, Father Doe, Mother Doe, and John Doe, (hereinafter "Plaintiffs"), are citizens and residents of the State of Alabama at all times relevant herein. That John Doe, is the minor child of Father Doe and Mother Doe. That Plaintiffs Father Doe and Mother Doe bring this action individually, and as next of friend for John Doe, their minor child.

2. That at all relevant times, Plaintiffs were an invite ich the highest level of care was owed.

n the nature of the subject to inform against ich is

In conclusion you should save your money on boarding school, it has a lot of negative affect and will affect the student overtime . In 2023 the number of students that were Native American children were sexually assaulted, beaten and emotionally abused. They were stripped of their clothes and scrubbed with lye soap.

Closing argument

Our evidence shows that boarding school prepares students for college, helps them grow as a person, and helps them become more independent and social with others. Students even say that they are pleased with their experience at boarding school. And with all of this information said, how can boarding school possibly be bad for students?

Closing Statement

We strongly believe that boarding school is a danger to students and their mental and physical health. They separated from their families for long periods of time and are independent. Many students have experienced abused and from that they gain mental issues which go with them into adulthood.

Sources

https://www.hotchkiss.org/benefits-of-boarding-school#:~:text=Students%20learn%20valuable%20life%20lessons,a%20stronger%20sense%20of%20community.

https://stjacademy.org/wp-content/uploads/2020/09/7-Proven-Reasons.pdf

https://www.boardingschools.com/

https://time.com/6177069/american-indian-boarding-schools-history/

https://www.edsurge.com/news/2022-02-08-to-truly-measure-student-growth-learning-experiences-must-be-personalized

The End.